2.2.3 REPORT OF THE ACTIVITIES

As an institutionalized activity in accordance with learner needs, the institution provides appropriate learning exposure to cater the differential student's needs in the following ways:

a. Communication Skills

Majority of our students are from rural areas, first generation learner's first graduates and from lower socio economic status. So their communication skills, language proficiency and digital skills are not up to the expected level. This is identified through entry behaviour observation and language proficiency test conducted to the new entrants in the beginning of the academic year. So the institution planned and implemented various programmes like bridge course.

Communicative skill, Thought for the day programme, life skill education, ICT programme, role play, group discussion, brain storming, debate, develop the communication skill of the student.

b. Digital Skills and Learning APPs

Students are divided into four houses, and raining was given to use digital platform for learning and teaching. To meet the challenges encountered in this digital world, our trainees are equipped with technological skills through periodic training on various digital skill like basic Computer application such as MS word, MS excel, MS Power Point, Google document, Google form, email creation, safe surfing.

c. Value Added Courses

Making students better prepared to meet demands of the profession as well as to develop their interests and aptitude in passible through supplementing curriculum with value added courses. Value added courses help the students so develop their skills, teaching and ensure the development of life skills. Our college offers value addedcourses to increase the employability quotient of our students with essential skills to succeed in life.
